

Genpact Wins CSO Award for the 9th Consecutive Year in 2025

Genpact has been recognized with the 2025 CSO Award for the ninth consecutive year, reaffirming its leadership in enterprise cybersecurity and risk management. The award is presented by Foundry's CSO, a leading global platform for security and risk intelligence.

This recognition highlights Genpact's human-centric security approach, which focuses on strengthening cybersecurity resilience by addressing human behavior as a critical layer of defense. Through continuous awareness programs, global security champions, and AI-enabled simulations, Genpact is helping employees stay ahead of evolving cyber threats.

According to Genpact leadership, building true resilience requires combining technology with human awareness, enabling organizations to respond effectively to increasingly sophisticated and AI-driven security risks.

The CSO Awards recognize organizations that demonstrate strong business impact and thought leadership through security initiatives. This year's recognition reflects Genpact's ability to embed security into everyday operations while driving a culture of vigilance, accountability, and continuous learning.

This milestone further reinforces Genpact's position as a trusted global partner committed to safeguarding digital ecosystems and enabling secure, large-scale enterprise transformation.
