

Genpact Collaborates with Microsoft to Drive Modern Finance Transformation

Genpact, an agentic and advanced technology solutions company, has announced a strategic collaboration with Microsoft to help organizations accelerate finance transformation through data, technology, and AI. By bringing together Microsoft Azure OpenAI Service and Genpact's deep finance and AI expertise, the collaboration aims to help businesses make faster decisions, unlock insights, and create greater value from their data.

As AI continues to reshape the finance function, the collaboration will support organizations in modernizing operations through intelligent automation, advanced analytics, and AI-driven decision-making. Together, Genpact and Microsoft will help finance teams become more agile, efficient, and future-ready.

The initiative builds on Genpact's long-standing expertise in finance transformation and reinforces its commitment to helping clients harness emerging technologies to drive innovation and business growth. It demonstrates how Genpact continues to combine domain expertise with strategic partnerships to shape the future of enterprise operations.

Regards,

Corporate Communications Team
Genpact